The tree is around 40% dead but is in a difficult location to work on, the tree is unbalanced and is within falling distance of a neighbouring property. Although currently it may not warrant removing but due to the amount of deadwood and the sparseness of the canopy it is safer to dismantle now than it would be when it has declined further. Removal of the tree wouldn't effect visual amenity due to being on the edge of a woodland. The six trees for pruning are Sycamore trees which are starting to overhang the property. |
