

Stansfield View Blue Plaque Location

Stansfield View Hospital was closed and demolished in the 1990's. A development of houses now sits within the footprint of the former hospital site (approximate footprint marked in red in the aerial image below).

Historic aerial images of the hospital (<https://penninehorizons.org/items/show/37097>) strongly suggest that the original boundary walls of the hospital site are still in place.

If permission from the landowner can be obtained, it is proposed that the Blue Plaque be fixed at a suitable location on the old boundary wall, either to the left or the right of Rossendale View. The location will be subject to survey and will consider:

- Secure fixing of the plaque
- Maintaining the integrity of the wall
- Visibility of the Plaque
